

The University of South Alabama Biology Department seeks applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor position with experience in Genetics, starting August 15, 2012. Teaching responsibilities include a core course in Genetics and upper level courses in the candidate's specialty. Candidates are expected to develop an externally funded research program. Candidates must have a Ph.D. in Biology or related field. Postdoctoral experience preferred. For more information, see <http://www.usouthal.edu/biology/facultysearch.html> .

Send cover letter, vitae, official graduate and undergraduate transcripts, statements of teaching philosophy and research goals, and three original recommendation letters to:

Genetics Search Chair
Univ. of South Alabama
Dept. of Biology
5871 USA Dr. N, Rm 124
Mobile, AL 36688
(251)633-6331.

Review of applications will begin November 01, 2011 and continue until position is filled. The University of South Alabama is an Equal Opportunity/Equal Access Employer.