

UNIVERSITY OF SOUTH ALABAMA VOCAL AREA GUIDELINES

THE BUSINESS OF SINGING AT THE UNIVERSITY OF SOUTH ALABAMA

The University of South Alabama Department of Music is dedicated to providing all its vocal students with a quality and systematic approach to the study of singing. Preparation of students for a lifetime of productive careers in singing is the central focus of the vocal area faculty. From the most elementary technique to the finer points of artistic development, USA's qualified and experienced faculty strives to prepare students for achievement as singers by equipping them with the tools to accomplish their goals in a wide array of vocal careers.

CURRICULUM OUTLINE

Auditions

All students entering the Department of Music as music majors/minors or Musical Theatre (B.F.A) are required to audition before the appropriate area faculty. Auditions for the Vocal Area are held throughout the academic year for incoming students. Some Vocal Area scholarship awards are offered in exchange for participation in Department of Music ensembles.

Barrier Exam

A Barrier Examination, before the voice faculty, must be passed at the end of the fourth semester of applied lessons at the collegiate level^{*}; the regular jury session is extended to make this determination. Successful completion of the exam, at a composite score of 3.0 or higher, enables the student to pass into upper-level study. (See attached jury sheet for further details.) Students must demonstrate a degree of professional potential as performers, and must achieve excellent ratings in intonation, timbre, breath management, diction, expression, stage presence and sight reading. Proficiency in at least three foreign languages plus English must be demonstrated. Students will present all required repertoire including the chamber piece at the barrier exam.

Studio Master Class

Studio Master Class is a monthly group meeting of applied voice students in which performance issues and techniques are addressed. Studio Master Class meets every 2nd Thursday from 3:30—4:30 p.m. Jury and barrier examination preparation is a specific focus, as well as other performance issues. There is no additional fee for Studio Master Class; accompanists for the class are the responsibility of the students.

Applied Voice Lessons – (special lab fees assessed)

Students accepted into the Bachelor of Music degree program with emphasis in Vocal Performance (400 level at upper division); Music Education, Music Business, Interdisciplinary Studies with Emphasis in Voice (300 level at upper division); Lower Division Vocal Study for all Music Degree programs, Voice Minors and Musical Theatre Majors (200 level) must complete required studies in Applied Voice. OTHER VOCAL AREA COURSES

Directed Studies: Opera History and Literature – MUS 494 (3 credit hours per semester)
Opera History and Literature is designed to give the student exposure to the development of opera from its earliest forms to the present day while developing critical skills when observing varying styles of the genre. The course is offered as needed

Vocal Diction – MUS 202 / MUS 203 (1 credit hour per semester)

Complete education of the trained singer necessarily involves the study of languages and their distinct inflections, pronunciations, and nuances. The study of foreign languages in the college curriculum alone does not address the subtleties involved in singing a language as opposed to speaking it. Consequently, much time is devoted to the mastery of diction principles appropriate to the standard sung languages of English, Italian, German, and French. The two-semester series (MUS 202 and MUS 203) consists of two one-hour class meetings per week. The course series is designed for adequate study and experience with each language, its principles of diction, and the development of a process to analyze for performance any given vocal work in that language. This lecture / performance course, rooted in the International Phonetic Alphabet (IPA), is intended to enable singers to analyze and perform standard vocal repertoire. The series is required of all Vocal Performance and Vocal Music Education majors and is recommended for Music Business (Vocal) majors.

Solo Vocal Literature – MUL 444 (3 credit hours)

The course is a comprehensive overview of standard solo vocal repertoire within the foundation of historical performance practice of sacred and secular vocal music from its beginnings to the present. This is a required course for all students pursuing the degrees of Bachelor of Music with Concentration in Vocal Performance or Concentration in Music Education. Enrollment is open to vocal concentration and performance students who have completed the Music History sequence (MUL 335/336) or who have permission of the Coordinator of Vocal Applied Studies. In addition to an acquaintance with standard vocal repertoire, exercises with current reference guides, web sites, and source books enable the student to effectively choose repertoire for both individual performance needs and teaching. The parameters of this course include an historical overview of vocal literature, recital programming and performance experience with song literature, research techniques, and historical performance practice principles.

Vocal Pedagogy – MUE 448 (2 credit hours)

Part of the skill set of any vocal artist is the ability to convey “the process of singing.” In addition to learning teaching techniques, voice science concepts, and basic physiology (for the purpose of helping others learn to sing), students gain an increased understanding of their own instruments. Students with a strong background in vocal pedagogy upon entering graduate school may also have the opportunity to apply for teaching assistantships as they pursue Masters and Doctoral degree programs. Vocal Pedagogy is a course for the upper level voice major with concentration in performance or music education. Students enrolled in the course will:

- Become conversant with the standard terminology of the physiological and technical elements of vocal production
- Obtain skills to structure vocal training in various formats
- Understand the physical processes involved in singing
- Evaluate teaching methods of active voice teachers through studio observations
- Experience studio teaching, involving a student volunteer, in a four-week vocal training session

UNIVERSITY OF SOUTH ALABAMA VOCAL AREA RECITAL PROTOCOLDegree Recitals:

- I. Barrier Exams and Second Year Music Theory must be successfully completed before any student can schedule a degree recital. (Exceptions to the Theory requirement may be granted by the Chair for transfer students in Vocal Performance preparing junior recitals.)
- II. The teacher and the student must prepare a traditional program of either 30 minutes of music (Junior Recitals – Performance & Senior Recitals – Music Education, Music Business, Interdisciplinary Studies) or 60 minutes of music for Performance Degree Senior Recitals. A qualified recital accompanist is the responsibility of the student; a list of accompanist will be listed on the voice area board.
- III. A traditional recital is considered to contain chronologically presented music from all style periods, including early Italian, art song, opera, oratorio, operetta, and music theatre.
- IV. The teacher and student must schedule a mutually-convenient tentative performance date and rehearsal date with the Events Coordinator. The date will become official upon the student's successful completion of the Recital Hearing.
- V. The teacher must ascertain a convenient time for the Voice Faculty to hear the entire recital (memorized) at least three weeks prior to the Recital Date and must schedule the Recital Hall or the Rehearsal Hall for the hearing – hearing evaluation sheets completed.
- VI. The teacher must provide a complete program, printed with composers and dates, foreign text translations, and accurate timings of all selections for the hearing committee. Forms are available online. Voice Faculty signatures are required to approve a recital for performance. Upon approval by the hearing committee, the teacher will present a rough draft of the recital program, all translations and additional program notes to the Events Coordinator using the Music Department template no later than two weeks before the recital date.
- VII. The teacher must make sure that the Voice Faculty will be present at the actual recital for the performance and adjudication. The formal recital Grade Sheet is also available online.
- VIII. After gaining grades and signatures, the teacher must file 10 copies of the program in the music office, plus a copy of the program stapled to the grade sheet. The applied teacher will also convey the grade for the recital to the Vocal Area Coordinator for final grading.
- IX. The Vocal Area Coordinator will assist the teacher in any of these steps, as desired.

Non-Degree Student Voice Recitals:

These recitals must be sponsored by a Voice Faculty member and their content reviewed by the Vocal Area Coordinator and the Facilities Committee prior to scheduling.

Studio Recitals:

It is assumed that the studio teacher will be responsible for presenting appropriate material for general audiences.

* All Recitals Must Limit Rehearsal Scheduling in the Hall to Two Sessions and must be scheduled through the Events Coordinator.
