

Kagan, Kimberly, "Redefining Roman Grand Strategy," The Journal of Military History, Vol. 70, No. 2 (April, 2006), 333-362.

The article review should be double spaced and be not more that two pages in length. That equals approximately five hundred words (not including the bibliographic information). Please use a Times Roman or similar typeface with a 12 point font.

Do not include any extra space between paragraphs. The paragraphs should be indented and us a "ragged right" (align left) justification. Notice that the heading of the paper is single spaced and uses the Chicago style of notation. This is the most commonly used for of citation in history publications.

If you are reviewing a podcast the citation should include as much of the following as can be determined: author of the content, title of the page, title or owner of the site, URL. Include the access date.

The article review should:

1. Give a synopsis of the article. (approx. 200 words)
2. Give your opinion of the article — was it readable, was it related to the course, of value to a company officer, etc. (approx. 300 words)
