

Abstract

Matrices over Finite Fields XVI: Non-decomposable Characters

The irreducible representations that we are still missing, the cuspidal representations, can be associated with certain characters of the multiplicative group of the unique quadratic extension of our finite field. A character of this multiplicative group is called decomposable if it factors over the norm map. We are especially interested in the non-decomposable characters, which we will study in this talk.