

Information for the Final Exam

The final exam is Monday, December 13, 10:30-12:30 in the usual classroom. All you need is something with which to write. No calculators or notes will be allowed.

You should review the problems listed below. The final exam will look very similar to some of these problems. In particular, there will be some true/false questions similar to those listed below. Answers to the odd numbered problems are in the back of the book. Answers to selected even ones, and explanations of selected odd ones, will be available soon. Let me know if there are any particular problems about which you would like more information. Keep in mind that most of these problems are similar to problems on previous midterms, solutions to which are already available.

It will be helpful if you can at least look through the following problems before Wednesday and come to class with questions (even just questions which anticipate problems — you don't have to have worked on it for hours before asking).
