

Mitchell Cancer Institute

“My late husband, who was a physician in Mobile, died of lymphoma when he was 46 years old. While battling cancer, he had to travel for lengthy periods of time to Vanderbilt University for treatment. It was very arduous and disruptive for him and our family.

“Nine years later, I was diagnosed with breast cancer. Fortunately for me, and my family, the Mitchell Cancer Institute had become a reality and I was able to get the best care available, right here in Mobile.

“If you have cancer, you want to go where that’s all they do all the time. That’s what they do at the Mitchell Cancer Institute. The institute uses a multi-disciplinary approach where all of the doctors, researchers and staff involved in your care sit down and put their heads together to establish a game plan before they begin any treatment. I believe this was a major contributor to the success of my treatment.

“Since the Mitchell Cancer Institute is a research facility, the professionals there are involved in new treatment protocols and clinical trials, giving patients the advantage of cancer care that is not only top-of-the-line for this region, but for the world. The institute also has state-of-the-art medical equipment and technology.

“My doctors at the Mitchell Cancer Institute were personable and approachable, and they took the time to explain my treatment and answer all my questions. If I had a need, it was always taken care of. I received loving care, encouragement and hope.

“The entire Mobile region is very fortunate to have a facility like this in our midst. If I have to deal with cancer again, I know exactly where I will go...the Mitchell Cancer Institute.”
