Randolph Medical Center is currently looking for a nurse practitioner to fill an open position in our Southern Family Health Clinic. We currently offer a wide range of services in our rural health clinic such as pediatrics, gynecology, internal medicine and general surgery. A nurse practitioner will enhance our services greatly and will ensure our patients receive the quality of care they are looking for.

The family Nurse Practitioner will provide primary care to patients and assists in the evaluation and treatment of these patients. Responsibilities include conducting patient interviews, collecting and interpreting diagnostic data, physical examinations and specialized procedures under the direction of a collaborating physician, and documenting medical assessment into the patient's medical record. He/She will also provide patient education and training to other health care professionals as needed.

We are looking for someone who can work with existing staff to accomplish great things to fill the above position. If you feel you meet these qualifications please join us today as we continue to set the standard in rural healthcare.
