

Picture yourself in London...and England.

On USA's 2009 London Summer Program.

Live

in London for over a month. Speed through the city on the Underground with your transit pass. Wander through the exclusive village of Hampstead, a few minutes from your dorm. Savor your hearty pub lunch. Ride at the top of red double-decker buses. Watch plays performed by the greatest stage actors in the world. Ramble through the English countryside using your Britrail pass. Feel the English summer in all its cool, green glory.

Learn

about The History of World War II where it actually happened. Take Professor Daniel Rogers' HY 457 class on England and Europe during their greatest crisis.

Visit

Dover's secret wartime tunnels, its medieval castle, and its white cliffs. Tour the H.M.S. Belfast, a British cruiser anchored in the Thames River. Satisfy your curiosity about the greatest warrior and politician of the twentieth century when you explore the Churchill Museum and the Cabinet War Rooms in central London. Pay your respects to those Americans who never returned on your pilgrimage to the Cambridge American Cemetery and Memorial (and see one of the world's great universities while you're at it). Marvel at the ingenious British effort to decipher Germany's secret codes and shorten the war when you stroll through the grounds of the Bletchley Park National Codes Centre.

The 2007 World War II class waits on their Underground train

At lunch in the Eagle pub in Cambridge, where the pilots of World War II relaxed

The class at the American Military Cemetery in Cambridge

And Experience

the world in a new way, far from the places so familiar to you. Encounter different ways of working, eating, dressing, traveling, thinking, and living.

For more information, contact Professor Daniel Rogers, storico@gmail.com, or 460-7610.