

Electronic Course Reserve

STEP 1: Go to the University Library's homepage at <http://library.southalabama.edu/> and choose Course Reserve

The screenshot shows the University Library homepage. On the left, there are navigation menus for 'About the Library', 'Services', 'Locations', 'Instruction', and 'News'. On the right, there are sections for 'Find Books & More', 'Find Articles', 'Find Reference Sources & Web Sites', and 'How Do I?'. An orange arrow points from the 'Instruction' menu to the 'Find Course Reserve' link in the 'How Do I?' section.

STEP 2: Search by Instructor, Department or Course Number

The screenshot shows the search interface with four tabs: 'Simple Search', 'Fill-In Form Search', 'Course Reserves', and 'New Books'. Below the tabs are four dropdown menus for 'Instructor', 'Department', 'Course', and 'Section', all set to 'Any'. A red arrow points to the 'Instructor' dropdown. At the bottom, there is a '50 records per page' dropdown, a 'Search' button, and a 'Reset' button.

STEP 3. Pull up results and choose a record

The University Libraries are changing the login procedures for the Libraries databases and for Course Reserve. Your login password, beginning Friday, May 16, will be your complete J Number -- including the J00.

Access to electronic reserve and to online databases is limited by the University of South Alabama Libraries' licenses with vendors to current faculty, students and staff. If you get a bad username and password message, you may not be entitled to access. Alumni, Courtesy Card holders and SOUTHmed members are not entitled to access our online databases remotely because this violates our licenses with database vendors who do not allow us to sell access to their products. If you think you received the message in error, contact the Library at webref@jaguar1.usouthal.edu.
