

University of South Alabama Baldwin County Scholarship Fund

Mission

The University of South Alabama Baldwin County's mission is to provide scholarships to Baldwin County students to help further their education during the current economic hardships.

History

In 1984, The University of South Alabama established a branch campus in Baldwin County. It was created to offer upper-level undergraduate and graduate degree programs, while also providing courses leading to various degrees. Since its beginning, enrollment at USABC has grown steadily and today has over 1,500 students annually.

USABC is tailored towards the working adult by offering most courses one night a week; however, education and nursing classes are held during the day. On-line courses are available as scheduled by the academic departments.

Degree Programs

USABC's curriculum has expanded and students who have completed the University's general education requirements can complete a bachelor's degree in the Adult Degree Program, Business Administration, Communication – Public Relations Track, Criminal Justice, Elementary Education, and Nursing, which offers both a traditional and accelerated track. Minors in Communication and Psychology are also offered. In addition, students can earn a master's degree in School Counseling and Nursing – Accelerated Track. Graduate level courses are offered leading to a degree in Educational Leadership and Special Education. A master's degree in Elementary Education can be earned online.

USABC Students

Over 75% of USABC students are female, with 30% working full-time with children, and taking 1-2 classes per semester. Full-time students account for 70% of those attending USABC. The largest degree programs are Nursing and Elementary Education. Credit hour production has increased by 72% over the last five years.
