Dean's Message

The 2017-2018 academic year was an exceptional one for the College of Arts & Sciences. I want to share with you some of the many accomplishments of our students and faculty members. These accomplishments occurred not only in classrooms, research labs, archives, and art studios and performance spaces but also out in fields, in the Delta, and in the Gulf of Mexico. I applaud our success in procuring grants, making presentations at important conferences, and publishing cutting-edge research findings in peer-reviewed books and journals. Here are some of the highlights of the last year.

The Department of Music had another outstanding year. The USA Concert Choir performed Mahler's Symphony No. 2 with the Mobile Symphony Orchestra, and our talented vocal students performed with the Mobile Opera in their productions. The Department saw increased enrollment for music majors and minors, greater student retention, and increased participation in music ensembles.

The Department of Biology celebrated the selection of Christian Pearsall, Biology major, as South's first Rhodes Scholar finalist. Another Biology major, Marie Mc Iyea, was chosen as a Fulbright Scholar finalist with plans to study in South Korea. The Department and the College were also very proud that the New York Times featured the research of Dr. Ylenia Chiari, Assistant Professor, on turtles in the Galapagos Islands.

In spring 2018, the student Bioethics Club (only in its second year) hosted the National Bioethics Bowl on the USA campus. This nationwide competition was a huge success, and the USA team placed 5th nationally. Dr. Anne Jeffrey, Assistant Professor of Philosophy, deserves credit as the advisor of the group and organizer of the event.

Another exceptional feat for the College was the premiere of the documentary "Journey to the Wilderness," funded partially by a grant from the Alabama Humanities Foundation and funds from the Departments of Communication, English, and History, as well as a number of grants from internal funding sources at the University. The documentary, conceived by Dr. Jim Aucoin, Chairperson of the Department of Communication, brings to life the USA Writer-in-Residence Frye Gaillard's book of the same title. It is expected to be broadcast on Alabama Public Television.

The Psychological Clinic continues to be an important and integral part of the Department of Psychology and the training ground for the Doctoral Program in Clinical/Counseling Psychology. Doctoral students obtain valuable experience in the delivery of psychological interventions under the supervision of clinical and counseling psychologists.

The Department of Theatre & Dance staged four plays during the academic year. Productions for fall 2017 were the musical Adrift in Macao, a spoof of the film noir genre written by American playwright Christopher Durang, and Thornton Wilder's classic drama Our Town, which examines a bygone America. The spring 2019 productions were Qui Nguyen's She Kills Monsters and the department's original adaptation of the seldom-performed Renaissance play Pericles.

The faculty members of the Department of Visual Arts have been very active. r. Christina Lindeman's book, Representing Anna Amalia's Bildung: A Visual Metamorphosis from Political to Personal, was published by Routledge. Professor Ben Shamback was inducted into The University of South Alabama chapter of the Honor Society of Phi Kappa Phi as Artist/Scholar of the Year for 2017-2018. Ms. Diane Gibbs, Associate Professor, was awarded the Outstanding Professional Achievement in Graphic Design Award from SECAC at its October 2017 annual conference. Assistant Professor Alma Hoffmann had a peer-reviewed journal article in Smashing Magazine. Professor Tony Wright was the featured artist at the 44th Annual Arts Festival (March 2018) at the Coastal Arts Center of Orange Beach in Alabama. Professor Wright also organized a group of students to produce bowls and assist with the annual Empty-Bowls fundraiser. Professor Matt

Johnson exhibited in the 1650 Gallery in Los Angeles and continued his research in stock art creation.

The faculty in the Department of Sociology, Anthropology, and Social Work had a very productive academic year, producing eighteen peer-reviewed articles, eight book chapters, one edited volume, and one textbook. Faculty research in the Department of Mathematics and Statistics resulted in 27 publications, five editorships, 24 published reviews and 60 conference/institution presentations. In addition, eighteen grants were awarded to Mathematics and Statistics faculty members. In the Department of Communication, Dr. Patricia Mark, Associate Professor, received a $24,000 grant to help fund work with USA's student-run Strategic Communication organization, Timeline Student Agency.

In the Department of English, the Stokes Center for Creative Writing sponsored a series of public fiction and poetry readings as well as public lectures, including one by Pulitzer-Prize-Winning science writer Elizabeth Colbert. Dr. Charlotte Pence is the Stokes Center Director. Other significant achievements from English Department faculty include Dr. Ellen Harrington's monograph Conrad's Sensational Heroines: Gender and Representation in the Late Fiction of Joseph Conrad (Palgrave-MacMillan, 2017), Dr. Chris Raczkowski's edited collection A History of American Crime Fiction (Cambridge University Press, 2017), and Dr. Nicole Amare's co-authored article "Bad News First: How Optimal Directness Depends on What Is Negated." The latter received national media attention via several television and radio news programs.

In the Department of History, Dr. E. Claire Cage was awarded a National Endowment for the Humanities Summer Stipend for research in France for her book on the development of forensic science in 19th-century France. She also won a Fellowship at the Huntington Library in California for this project. In addition, Dr. Cage received the 2017 Baker-Burton Prize for the best first book on European History published between the years of 2013-2017. This award, from the European History Section of the Southern Historical Association, is for Dr. Cage's book Unnatural Frenchmen: The Politics of Priestly Celibacy and Marriage, 1720-1815 (University of Virginia Press, 2015). Dr. David Meola, in conjunction with United States Holocaust Memorial Museum of Washington, D.C., hosted a discussion on the Holocaust and the Jim Crow South. The event was held on the USA campus in October 2017. Dr. Meola and undergraduate student Shannon Lundgren presented research at a parallel conference in Birmingham (February 2018) that was also hosted by the United States Holocaust Memorial Museum. As it does every year, the Department of History held its prestigious Stallworth and Mahan Lectures during 2017-2018.

The Department of Marine Sciences received 4.9 million dollars in new research awards. The grant funding stems from a diversity of federal, state, and industry sources. Of particular note is a 5 million dollar grant from the National Science Foundation (NSF) to Dr. Alison Robertson and her colleagues. The grant, "Linking the chemical and biological diversity of epiphytic dinoflagellates in tropical oceans: Advancing global understanding on the origin of ciguatera," is funded through the NSF's PIRE (Partnerships for International Research and Education) program and represents one of the largest NSF grants to be awarded to the University of South Alabama. Many Marine Sciences faculty members continue to dedicate much of their time to investigations of the effects of the Deepwater Horizon Oil Spill. Numerous journal articles that describe the effects of the oil spill on the oceanic food-web from microbes to marine mammals have been published over the last couple of years, and more are to come.

The College held its second annual USA Democracy Day on March 2, 2018, at the USA Student Center Amphitheatre. This inclusive, well-attended event brings students and faculty members together to engage with timely, important issues. Co-sponsored with the Office of the Dean of Students, the USA Democracy Day Teach-In also includes a campus march. The event's concurrent panel sessions covered the following topics: "Black Lives Matter & Democracy," "Democracy & Free Speech," "Science & Democracy," "Populism & Democracy," "The 'Me Too' Movement & Democracy," "Media & Democracy," "Voting Rights, Representation & Democracy," "Education & Democracy," "DACA, Immigration & Democracy," "Reproductive Rights & Democracy," "Global Perspectives on Democracy," and "LGBT Rights & Democracy."

A & S faculty members were very successful in publishing peer-reviewed scholarship during the academic year. For example, the following peer-reviewed books were published:

Harrington, E. B. (2017). Conrad's Sensational Heroines: Gender and Representation in the Late Fiction of Joseph Conrad. New York: Palgrave Macmillan.

Lindeman, C. K. (2017). Representing Anna Amalia's Bildung: A Visual Metamorphosis from Political to Personal. New York and London: Routledge.

Poston, T. & Carter, J. A. (2018). A Critical Introduction to Knowledge How. Bloomsbury.

Poston, T. & McCain, K., eds. (2018). Best Explanations: New Essays on Inference to the Best Explanation. Oxford University Press.

Rackowski, C. (2017). A History of American Crime Fiction. New York: Cambridge University Press.

Trout, S. (Ed.). (2018). Points of Honor: Short Stories of the Great War by a US Combat Marine by Thomas Boyd. Tuscaloosa, AL: University of Alabama Press.

In addition to the six books cited above, A & S faculty members published 237 peer-reviewed articles and 49 peer-reviewed book chapters. They made 582 scholarly presentations at international, national, and regional conferences, published 19 book reviews, and served on 47 editorial boards for scholarly journals. To help promote research, the College awarded sabbaticals to eight faculty members for the 2017-2018 academic year.

In mentoring student research at the undergraduate and graduate levels, A & S faculty members supervised 315 undergraduates in research projects and 200 graduate students in their research.

During this academic year, grant submission and funding for the College was once again very strong. A total of 127 grants were submitted, and 68 were awarded for $2,617,682. These numbers demonstrate the commendable effort of the A & S faculty members in acquiring external funding for research.

College of Arts & Sciences faculty members hosted and/or attended numerous conferences, professional meetings, and colloquia in the Mobile area during the academic year, and here some examples: the Alabama Psychological Association, the Alabama Academy of Science, the Alabama Communication Association, the Gulf South History and Humanities Conference, the Interdisciplinary Conference on France and the Memory of the Great War, the Conference on Teaching and Learning, the Symposium: Remembering the Holocaust, Gulf Coast Center for Holocaust and Human Rights Education, the Mobile Bay National Estuary Program, the Southern Regional Algebra Conference, the Southeastern Epistemology conference, the Alabama Conference of Social Work, and the 4th Annual Generational Resiliency Conference.

Finally, A & S faculty members were once again actively engaged in the community, volunteering time and talent to support a variety of community groups and causes. In total, faculty members donated over 12,250 hours of service to many area groups and organizations, including the Mobile International Festival, the Mobile Jaycees, The Mobile Regional Science and Engineering Fair, the Mobile Jewish Film Festival, Coastal Cleanup, Boy Scouts of America, the Distinguished Young Women Program, the Salvation Army, the Mobile Azalea Trail Maids, the Indian Association of Greater Mobile, the United Cerebral Palsy of Mobile, the Society Mobile-La Habana, L'Arche of Mobile, the Junior League of Mobile, the United Way of Southwest Alabama, Big Brothers and Big Sisters of Southwest Alabama, Playhouse in the Park, and Mobile Baykeeper.

Mission Statement

The College of Arts and Sciences is the intellectual center of the University of South Alabama and is the foundation for establishing the University's quality academic programs. In the College of Arts and Sciences, students receive broad exposure to all areas of academic inquiry, as well as in-depth knowledge in their chosen field of study. The College provides all undergraduate students at the University, regardless of major, with the fundamentals of a liberal arts education to enhance their knowledge and create an atmosphere in which they develop their communication and critical thinking abilities.

The College also provides all undergraduates with additional academic training necessary to carry out independent inquiry. Such an education promotes a heightened sense of intellectual curiosity and an appreciation of the values and accomplishments of the arts and humanities, the sciences, mathematics, and the social sciences.

The overall effect on students is a greater awareness of their responsibilities for the well-being of their society.

In achieving these educational goals, the College of Arts and Sciences will: (1) offer a full range of subjects in the humanities, fine arts, social sciences, mathematics, and the natural sciences; (2) encourage breadth of learning and training in the fundamentals of scholarship; create and apply knowledge in the arts and sciences through dedicated research, teaching, scholarship, and creative works; (3) foster educational exchange within the University, the Mobile community, and society as a whole; maintain a community of scholars and teachers devoted to the preservation and discovery of knowledge and its transmission to students and to the public; (4) promote lifelong learning and open and free inquiry; (5) encourage and support the application of knowledge in service to the University, the Mobile metropolitan area, and the wider society; (6) promote diversity, tolerance, and mutual understanding among all members of the University community and society as a whole; (7) emphasize the regional uniqueness of southwest

Alabama, including its cultural heritage, its natural environment, and its strategic location as a port city on the Gulf of Mexico; (8) and, prepare students to participate in the larger world beyond the region by giving them an awareness of the complexity of global issues and contexts, and prepare students for meaningful and productive careers and contribute to the development of an educated work force responsive to the needs of the region.

A Vision for the College

The College of Arts & Sciences is the intellectual foundation for academic enterprise at The University of South Alabama. With more than 200 full-time faculty members, over 3,400 undergraduate majors, and almost 200 graduate students, the College is by far the largest academic unit in the university. More importantly, through the liberal arts general education curriculum, the College plays an integral role in educating every undergraduate student at USA.

As the University has evolved since 1963, its mission has expanded to emphasize not only on teaching and service but also significant research. Indeed, research and scholarship are essential to the teaching mission of the College, and A & S faculty members eagerly engage in cutting-edge research. As the University has grown and new faculty members have joined its ranks, research has increasingly defined the University of South Alabama, helping distinguish it from other colleges and universities in the Gulf Coast region and the state of Alabama.

The College of Arts & Sciences has played an integral role in sustaining the new direction of the University. Indeed, the A&S faculty members are second only to the College of Medicine in the level of extramural funding received, but that is only one measure of the scholarship that has become an expected part of every faculty member's professional responsibility. Much of the research, scholarship, and creative work faculty members produce receives little or no extramural funding, yet it contributes significantly to the intellectual climate and to enhancing the reputation of the University of South Alabama as a leading research institution in the Southeastern United States.

The College of Arts & Sciences' rich intellectual climate is driven by a vision of excellence, a vision shared by our students, faculty, and administrators alike. This vision aligns research and scholarship with teaching and service to foster not only further improvements in classroom instruction but also improvements in the quality of life in our community.

Gulf Coast Behavioral Health and Resiliency Center

The mission of the Gulf Coast Behavioral Health and Resiliency Center (GCBHRC) is to facilitate wellness, promote integrated healthcare, and improve the quality of life for Lower Alabama residents. The Center provides evidence-based training/educational programs and enables mental/behavioral health services for adults, children, and families located in Mobile and Baldwin Counties. GCBHRC also engages in workforce development, capacity building, and resiliency-enhancing therapeutic programs while conducting programmatic evaluation and disseminating up-to-date research. The GCBHRC is also committed to enhancing the training and education of undergraduates, graduates, post-doctoral fellows, psychiatry residents and child psychiatry fellows who are affiliated with the University of South Alabama. The GCBHRC has focused on increased community capacity for trauma-informed care, building sustainable community-wide partnerships that include law enforcement, education, and health care providers, and dissemination of lessons learned.

During 2017-18, GCBHRC met its mission by:

SYSTEM CHANGE

In collaboration with community/university partners we established both the University of South Alabama Disaster & Trauma Alliance (USA ATA) and the Pediatric Integrated Health Psychology Training Group. USA ATA was established to create a community of trauma-informed educators, clinicians, and scientists of various backgrounds and expertise. The University of South Alabama Pediatric Integrated Care Team was formed to share resources, increase synergy around existing activities and grant proposals, and to train CCP students on how to provide MBH services in pediatric primary care. We have also joined the USA Opioid Interest Group and the USA Obesity Collaborative Network.

TRAINING

The GCBHRC has trained or provided funding for over 1,000 people to be trained in a variety of evidence-based programs including:

- Youth Mental Health First Aid
- Adult Mental Health First Aid

- QPR (Question, Persuade, Respond) – Suicide Prevention Program
- Mental Health First Aid: Public Safety
- Law Enforcement Wellness Seminar
- Crisis Intervention Team Training

The Center has disseminated information through publications, oral presentations, posters, and workshops. We have had 9 peer reviewed manuscripts/book chapters published (during the 2017-2018 academic year), with 6 more papers in press! We have a number of other manuscripts in submission at peer-reviewed journals. We have given over 25 professional presentations this year. GCBHRC has also presented 16 posters at various conferences to include the 35th Annual

DEPARTMENT OF

Psychology continues to be a very popular discipline. It attracts majors, minors, and a host of students who take Psychology courses as part of their general education. The introductory psychology course provides instruction to approximately 1600 students during the course of the academic year, mostly to students in fields of study other than psychology. Upper division courses are also populated by many students in fields of study other than psychology. The popularity of psychology is also apparent from the number of students that major in this field of study. Currently, approximately 356 students are majoring in psychology which is one of the fields of study with the most majors in the College of Arts and Science. Many students majoring in psychology not only receive the quality education provided in the context of the classroom, but also get additional training and experience from the mentoring faculty provide in the context of directed studies, participation in the Honors program, participation in the UCUR program, and participating in practicum.

In 2017-2018, 18 undergraduate practicum students worked in the Mobile community for a total of 1960 hours. Students were also active in research through directed studies courses where they gain experience from assisting in the program of research conducted by psychology faculty members. This experience frequently culminates in students presenting research at psychological conferences.

or the 2017-2018 academic year, undergraduate majors in psychology participating in either the Honors program, or taking directed studies courses made 27 research presentations at professional psychology conferences. Two students published papers in peer-reviewed publications. In addition to these accomplishments, two undergraduate students received awards for their outstanding performance. Meghan Dean received the outstanding undergraduate student award and Gabrielle Craig received the Pinnacle award.

The doctoral program in combined clinical/counseling psychology continues to be a popular program particularly since receiving APA accreditation. Applications for the program continue to be plentiful resulting in the difficult task of deciding on which of many very qualified students will be admitted to the program. Clinical and Counseling Psychology faculty members are attracting applicants from across the nation. Students in the 2017-2018 incoming class are from Washington, New York, North Carolina, Missouri, Michigan, Mississippi, and Georgia. The Master of Science experimental program emphasizing Behavioral and Brain Sciences is also moving forward with recent graduates being accepted into Ph.D. programs. Students in the CCP Doctoral program distinguish themselves by being accepted to APA accredited internships. Graduate students in both programs are presenting at professional conferences and publishing in peer reviewed journals. For the 2017-2018 year, psychology graduate students have presented 59 research posters/papers at professional conferences and have authored or co-authored 40 peer reviewed papers that are either published or in-press. Sarah Taylor, Jan-Louw Kotze, and Melissa Myers received the outstanding Master of Science awards, and Timothy Carroll received the outstanding doctoral student award. By any measure, the graduate programs are training students that will be productive psychologists who will make important contributions to the profession.

To support the graduate students, the clinical/counseling faculty members continue to be active and successful in securing grants and contracts that fund assistantships. In addition to the assistantships provided by the USA foundation and the Graduate School, support is obtained from contracts with agencies such as the USA Health Service, The Learning Tree, Veteran Affairs, Lifelines Counseling Center, Gulf Coast Behavioral Health and Resiliency Center, as well as from grants from SAMHSA and the Department of Justice.

The Psychological Clinic continues to be an important and integral part of the Psychology Department and training ground for the doctoral program in clinical/counseling psychology. Doctoral students obtain valuable training in the delivery of psychological interventions under the supervision of clinical and counseling psychologists. The Psychological Clinic is also a resource where clinical and counseling psychologists can conduct their part-time private practice. The clinic is increasingly being recognized as a valuable community resource with the number of patients seen in the clinic increasing each year. During the 2017-2018 year, the USA Psychology Clinic served 554 new clients. A total of 742 unique clients were seen during this year, for a total of 3,611 attended appointments.

or 2017-2018, a total of 4,368 appointments were scheduled with student clinicians. Clients attended 3,010 of these scheduled appointments, resulting in 3,443 direct contact hours. Attended (student) appointment types included Screening (8.9%), Counseling (62.9%), Assessment/Feedback (16.4%), Group or Couples Counseling (6.7%), and Parent-Child Interaction Therapy (5.1%). During the academic year, CCP faculty members provided services to 245 unique clients for a total of 430 direct contact hours.

Psychology faculty members have had another very successful year pursuing their individual programs of research and contributing to the psychological knowledge base. The various research programs have resulted in 47 published manuscripts in peer reviewed journals, 6 book chapters, and 2 edited books this year. The psychology faculty members were also active participants in professional conferences, making 10 presentations at international conferences, 41 presentations at national conferences, 13 presentations at regional conferences, and 13 presentations at local conferences. While much of this research is not supported by grant funding, a significant portion is funded by internal and external grants. For the 2017-2018 academic year psychology faculty are receiving external grant funds from the Substance Abuse and Mental Health Services Administration (SAMHSA) and Templeton World Charity. Additionally, the Gulf Coast Behavioral Health and Resiliency Center continues its mission supported by the eight million dollar oil spill fund. Obviously faculty members are actively pursuing grant funding and having some success in this arena.

In addition to maintaining an active research program, faculty members contribute to the profession of psychology in a variety of ways. All faculty members serve as ad hoc reviewers for manuscripts sent to peer reviewed journals. Faculty members have served as ad hoc reviewers for journals such as Journal of Autism and Developmental Disabilities, Journal of Clinical Psychology, Behavioral Science, Journal of Experimental Psychology: Learning, Memory, and Cognition, Mindfulness, and The European Journal of Cognitive Psychology. Faculty also serve on the editorial boards or operate as consulting editors of journals such as Journal of Child and Family Studies, Journal of Attention Disorders, Death Studies, and Partner Abuse.

Further evidence of the quality of the faculty is the awards they receive and the leadership positions that they hold in their organizations. Dr. Rohling received the distinguished Service Award from the National Academy of Neuropsychology. Dr. Ben Hill is the current President of Mobile Area Psychologists. Dr. Jack Shelley-Tremblay directed South Alabama Science Olympiad for the Alabama Academy of Sciences.

In sum, Psychology faculty and students have devoted their time and energy to teaching and learning, research, and service. Their productivity is documented by the accomplishments reported here. They have made substantial contributions to the development of students, the development of psychological knowledge, and the advancement of the community. They have had a very good year.
