

isportsweb.com, Journalism Internship

Description/Requirements:

Seeking students who want to build their resume and potentially obtain college credit by writing for a nationally recognized website. On top of students who want to publish their work, organization is searching for passionate and knowledgeable sports minds who desire to write about the one team that they truly love. There are full and partial openings for a host of major pro and college teams. The correspondent position comes with the opportunity to have the student's writing reach a national audience as isportsweb.com feeds into Google News, ESPN, and FoxSports.

Experience with Wordpress is preferred, but not required.

Responsibilities:

As a Sports Correspondent, interns at isportsweb.com will be assigned to cover a sports beat for a team they have interest in. As that team's correspondent, interns are expected to generate multiple stories per week about that team. These stories can and should be opinionated, and we give our writers freedom to pick topics they find relevant to their particular team.
