Otolaryngologist - Assistant Professor Faculty Position

JOB DESCRIPTION

The Department of Speech Pathology and Audiology at the University of South Alabama is seeking a Board Certified/Eligible ENT physician at the Assistant Professor level to join the faculty to provide patient care and medical education with advanced graduate students within the USA Speech and Hearing Center. This position will build from an established patient base, while offering the opportunity to expand the current practice to provide effective, evidence-based healthcare to a diverse patient population across the lifespan. In addition to clinical practice, this position affords the opportunity for interprofessional collaboration with faculty and students in the Pat Capps Covey College of Allied Health at the University of South Alabama.

MINIMUM REQUIREMENTS

Minimum requirements to be considered for this position include earned doctorate in medicine, medical licensure, and Alabama Board of Medical Examiners certification/eligibility in otolaryngology.

ABOUT US

The USA Speech and Hearing Center is a free-standing outpatient facility within the USA Health system with opportunities for surgical and patient care privileges at the two affiliated hospitals, USA Health Children's and Women's Hospital and USA Health University Hospital. The Department of Speech Pathology and Audiology and on-campus Speech and Hearing Center boasts 17 academic and clinical faculty members serving students in the Department of Speech Pathology and Audiology at USA and providing patient care to residents in the communities of the Gulf Coast region. As part of the University of South Alabama, we are an education and training facility for students preparing for careers in Speech-Language Pathology and Audiology, and provide comprehensive evaluations and therapeutic services for adults and children within the greater Mobile area and surrounding communities.

USA Health helps people lead longer, better lives through its excellence in education, research and medical care. With more than 3,600 employees, USA's health network includes University Hospital, Children's & Women's Hospital, Mitchell Cancer Institute, Physicians Group, and the College of Medicine. Each year, our team of 180 physicians, 240 residents and fellows, 70 advanced practitioners and 800 nurses handle some 185,000 clinic visits and 350,000 outpatient procedures. USA Health delivers 2,800 babies a year, more than any other regional hospital, and treats patients through some 60,000 emergency room visits annually.

In addition to advanced and innovative patient care offered at University hospitals and clinics, USA's medical education programs provide first-class training experiences for the next generation of physicians and scientists. USA Health delivers excellence in care while improving the quality of life for residents across the Gulf Coast.
