Guide to Jacqueline Anderson Matte / MOWA Choctaw Indian Papers

Descriptive Summary:

Creator: Jacqueline Anderson Matte

Title: Jacqueline Anderson Matte / MOWA Choctaw Indian Papers

Dates: 1811-2006

Quantity: 25.5 cubic feet

Abstract: Documents primarily related to Jacqueline Matte's research for her books The History of Washington County Alabama, Seeing Historic Alabama, and They Say the Wind Is Red.

Accession: 07-09-470

Biographical Note:

Jacqueline Anderson Matte was born in Chatom, Alabama, in 1935. She received her B.S. from Samford University, and attended the University of Alabama at Birmingham, where she earned two Masters Degrees, one in History and the other in Secondary Education. Matte received the Teacher-Scholar Award from the National Endowment for the Humanities. Besides her work on the MOWA Choctaw Indians, Matte compiled records relating to Spanish Fort San Esteban, Old St. Stephens, the territorial capital of Alabama, and the Choctaw Trading House. She is a member of the Alabama Humanities Foundation Speakers Bureau and Alabama Historical Association, serving as president of the latter from 2005-2006. Using her compiled research material, Matte also appeared before the U.S. Senate's Committee on Indian Affairs and testified in favor of granting federal recognition to Alabama's Choctaw Indians (otherwise known as the MOWA Band of Choctaw Indians). Prior to 2007, the MOWA band failed in its efforts to be validated as a federally recognized Indian tribe. However, after gaining acknowledgment by the State of Alabama, the MOWA Indians, on July 17, 2007, filed a new lawsuit in the U.S. District Court in Mobile, once again seeking federal recognition.

Scope and Content:

In addition to photographs and negatives, this collection consists of manuscripts, correspondence, research material, newspaper clippings, journals, books, court documents, court records, and approximately two hundred hours of audio interviews, some of which are transcribed. The collection is not limited in scope to just the MOWA Indians. It also contains documents compiled for the donor's research on Washington County and historic Alabama. Much of the information in the collection is primary material gleaned from the National Archives and various county courthouses.

Arrangement:

The collection is divided into five series: 1. Research Files [14 cu. ft.]; 2. Publications, arranged alphabetically by subject matter [4.5 cu. ft.]; 3. Audio Cassettes, arranged chronologically [1 cu. ft.]; 4. Photographs, arranged by subject (.50 cu. ft.); 5. Books, arranged alphabetically by last name of author; journals chronologically by name of journal [5.5 cu. ft.]; 6. Microfilm (8 rolls; 1824-1914; intermittent years); 7. Mobile County, Alabama Catholic Church Records (1781-1886; intermittent years).

Access Restrictions:

This material is open for research; however some files are restricted. Twenty-four hours advance notice required to use this collection. Proof of the researcher's relationship to the subject may be required as well.

Use Restrictions:

None

Guide Updated by: Chris Burroughs

Series 1: Research Files. Consists of miscellaneous material related to Matte's research for her books They Say the Wind is Red and The History of Washington: First County in Alabama. The files related to the MOWA Indians were later used in Federal Court in the group's attempt to gain recognition.

Series 2: Publications. Made up various publications, including magazines, journals, research guides, and pamphlets. The primary topic of focus is Native Americans. Also includes maps, transcripts of interviews, and a MOWA proposal for federal recognition.

Series 3: Audio Cassettes. Consists of seventy-three audio cassettes of interviews conducted by Jackie Matte for her research. They were later used in the court cases. Also contains videos (VHS) and slides.

Series 4: Photographs. Contains approximately two hundred b&w and color negatives, as well as numerous black and white and color photographs of the MOWA people, structures, artifacts, and documents. Also includes two binders with photocopied images, which are captioned. Most of the original photographs are housed at the Hoole Library, Special Collections, University of Alabama, who paid for much of the original film and developing. (Photographs of Geronimo are in Box 5.)

Series 5: Books. Composed of books that Matte used in her research. Some of the items in this series, however, were part of Matte's personal collection.

Series 6: Microfilm. Eight rolls (both 16 and 35mm) related to the Choctaw Indians.

Series 7: Mobile County, Alabama Catholic Church Records. Vital records of St. Peter's Church in Chastang and church records of the Mobile, Alabama, Catholic churches.
